Vincenzo Bellini (1801-1835), Gaetano Donizetti (1797-1848) and Giuseppe Verdi (1813-1901). Verdi's operas are considered classics. The music of opera is largely written in a formal style, as in classical music, but opera uses a range of musical elements that are not found in most classical music, including: Expression is the quality of expressing emotions. It is an essential element of opera, which is the art form of a genre of music, where the musical expression includes singing, dancing, recitation, and singing accompanied by instruments. The Italian opera is performed by singers and instrumentalists, including from the orchestra, chorus, and ballet (a dance ensemble). The principal types of Italian opera are spoken drama, spoken comedy, and lyrical drama. The key features of an opera in general are the use of a text or libretto, and an incursion of narrative, which implies a linear progression of events within a certain time frame. A narrative part of the opera performance is called the opera seria. I am a fan of music, and this type of music is very beautiful. People can sing and enjoy singing along with the music. The famous composers of opera are mostly Italian and there 82157476af
